Course Description: The course will cover reading and writing the Latin language; Latin grammar and vocabulary; principles of English grammar and structure; Latin mottoes and proverbs in use today; English derivatives; study of Roman life, history and mythology; and study of how the Romans have influenced architecture, English, literature, medicine, law, government, science, Romance languages, math, advertising, business, and many other subjects.

Extended Course Description: Attendance is very important in a language class. You are expected to attend all classes and notify the instructor in case of illness or emergency. Students will receive a list of assignments each week with the due date. Late assignments will be accepted only in case of illness or emergency. Please call the instructor on the day of the absence. Language study cannot be crammed. Memorization in particular is done best in short, repeated sessions of studying. It helps to write out Latin forms or make vocabulary and grammar cards.

Goals: Student will become familiar with:
-Reading and writing the Latin Language
-Latin grammar and vocabulary
-Principals of English Grammar and structure
-Latin mottoes and proverbs in use today
-English Derivatives
-Study of Roman life, history and mythology
-Study of how the Romans have influenced architecture, English, literature, medicine, law, government, science, Romance languages, math, advertising, business, and many other subjects.
Outcomes: Successful completion of course goals.

Methodology: Points are given for homework, graded assignments, quizzes, exams, papers, and presentations. One presentation and paper will be required. There will also be ancillary resources such as vocabulary games, quizzes, grammar and forms exercises, games, and cultural information on the internet created by various teachers. The students will be able to access these resources by going to their search engine and typing in Ecce Romani.

Evaluation Criteria: The grading scale will be as follows:
A= 90-100
B= 80-89
C= 70-79
D= 60-69
F= 59 and below

Course Specific Detail: Make up exams and quizzes will be given only by appointment, and for illness and emergencies only. In that event, students must call on the day of the exam and get the absence cleared.
