* For the items that we did not test or were unknown. Put in a score of zero. I have also tested the table by putting in a score of 10 for these. It did change the order but did not change the top proposal.

Feedback from RA's on the Mattress that they tested

August:
- "It's very uncomfortable." - "It's too hard." - "It's too hard." - "It's not even about the bumps. The bumps don't really matter when you lay on it. It's just hard."
Green Diamedical

Mattress:
- (Tried it out on the bed frame): "It has too much give. You sink down all the way to the frame." - "Yeah...not the best option." - "I think these mattresses would last like a year." - "This mattress is a -20 out of 10 on the hold-up-ability scale."

William Peterson - Derby:
- "I'd say it's, um, not great. It's fine, but not better than what we have now." - "This mattress feels like pain." - "If a neck-ache was a mattress, it would be this one. Too firm!"

Denver Mattress:
- "Actually really good but can't be flipped over. When it wears down, you can't flip it, and that's bad."
- "Seems okay." - "Seems somewhat okay-ish."

William Peterson - Dormlife (has a firm and plush side):
- "We need this mattress. I don't care if it's too expensive, we need to find the money. This one is nice and comfy for everyone. Buy it!" - "Protect this mattress at all costs." - "This is the one. It is imperative that we buy this one. So comfy!" - "I like that you can choose plush or firm!"
Commercial Concepts Opt #1
This mattress was one that they really loved. All of them found it extremely comfortable.

Commercial Concepts Opt #2
They said that this was an average mattress would work if we didn't have any better options.
Valiant

Products and Sysco

Comfortable mattress but worry that with the springs that it wouldn't last 10 years.

Lippert

Opt #1 and #2

Comfortable but worried that the center open cell structure will breakdown over time. Better in the option that has the smaller structure but still a concern.
